Condition of the California and Texas Construction Company.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov —A late edition last evening of the Telegraph says the California and Texas Construction Company, engaged in building by contract the Texas and Pacific Railroad, was unable to meet all its [illegible] maturing to-day. The present financial condition of the Company has rendered it advisable for the Company to realize ready cash on its [illegible]. Although they are very largely in excess of its liabilities, over thirty millions of its paper, most of it [illegible] by prominent stockholders, went to [illegible]. The liabilities of the Construction Company are reported at $4,500,000 in notes variously [illegible] maturing within 90 days; $1 600 000 in loans on collateral and individual security; $[illegible],000 in [illegible] obligations in the shape of drafts; $2,500,000 floating debt, amounting in all to nearly $7,000,000. This amount, with over $4,000,000 cash paid in on the [illegible] of the construction company, has been [illegible] in constructing the Texas Pacific Railroad. There are 300 miles of road completed, equipped and in operation; about 150 miles additional graded and bridged are ready for iron. The resources of the construction company consist of $35 000 per mile completed road first mortgage bonds of the Railroad Company secured by lien on road and its [illegible] and 16,000 acres of land per mile, granted by the State of Texas; over $2 000 000 [illegible] stock, the most of which will probably be paid, and the private property of individual endorsers, which is very large. It is believed that the creditors, most of whom hold large amounts, will readily arrange for an extension of liabilities, so as to give the Company time to realize without loss.

Affairs of the Texas Pacific.

CHICAGO, Nov 5—The Times' Washington special has the following in regard to the trouble of the California & Texas Construction Company: The construction company found it necessary to issue [illegible] in anticipation of the negotiating in London of [illegible] bonds of the Texas and Pacific, which negotiation they regarded as good as completed, Thos A Scott having conducted it to successful issue. So near [illegible] was it, that the contract in London was drawn and agreed to for ten million and a [illegible] of ten millions more, and signatures were only [illegible]. [illegible], however, they were affixed, news of the failure of Jay Cooke & Co and of our panic reached London and the whole negotiation was [illegible]. [illegible] company bore individual endorsements of wealthy members of the Company, like Thomas A. Scott, J Edgar Thompson, [illegible] Baird, Saml L. Felton and others who each endorsed a certain amount of the paper. That on which J Edgar Thompson's name appeared was paid, but that bearing the name of Thos. A. Scott was not. The Construction Company had a capital of ten millions, of which nine millions had been subscribed for and on which latter six millions cash had been paid. The Company have expended one million in building 440 miles of the road, of which 300 are entirely completed, and not a single bond had been marketed, the policy of Mr Scott being not to begin the sale of bonds until ten million actual money had been laid out in work. London negotiating carried, there would have been no trouble. As it is, all losses fall on wealthy people, who [illegible] interested in building the road or in the way of having bought the Construction Company's paper.

An effort has been made to damage the credit of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company on account of the protest [illegible] Mr Scott's paper. There is no connection between the Companies. It is not known that the semi-annual dividend of the latter will be paid, but those who ought to know say it will. That Company has the whole month of November to decide the matter without departing from the previous [illegible].

NEW YORK, Nov 5—Tweed appeared in Court to-day. When the case was called Judge Fullerton said that before any proceedings were taken he should like to submit a paper to the Court, to which counsel for prisoner agreed. The paper is understood to be a protest against Judge Davis presiding at the trial. When read by him it seemed to excite his surprise and indignation. He characterized the paper as extraordinary and in part untrue, but declined to point out any particular paragraph as objectionable. Mr Bartlett, of counsel for defense, then said that if Judge Davis was a saint from heaven they would take the same course. A recess was then taken that Judge Davis might consult his associates.

NEW YORK, Nov 6—Judge Davis, despite the protest of Tweed's counsel against his presiding because hostile to the prisoner, has ordered the trial to proceed.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Decision of the Supreme Court in the Lamb-Davenport Case.

WASHINGTON, Nov 4—In the Supreme Court to-day, in the case of Lamb vs Davenport, appealed from the United States Circuit Court for Oregon, it was held that contracts made by actual settlers on public lands concerning their possessory title and [illegible] title to be acquired in the future from the United States are valid as between the parties to the contracts, though there is at the time no act of Congress by which title may be acquired, and though the Government is under no obligations to release the claims of parties in regard to title, unless they are forbidden by some positive law. The provision of the Oregon Donation Act of 1850 which forbids the future sale of settlers' interest until patent shall issue, so far from invalidating such contracts made before its passage, raises a strong implication in favor of their validity. Whether the husband or wife who takes as survivor the share of the deceased under the donation act takes it as purchaser or by inheritance, it is held that contracts of the husband concerning the title interest in that part of it which he might [illegible] before the [illegible] was issued [illegible] binding on the title which comes to his children by reason of patent issued after the death of both husband and wife. The decree is affirmed.

WASHINGTON, Nov 4—Treasurer Spinner, in his thirteenth annual report, says that the falling off in the receipts for the past year from customs amounts to $28,260 704 and from internal revenue $10 312 784, while the expenditures are largely in excess of previous years. The Treasurer discants on monetary troubles, and favors as a remedy the issue of considerable legal tenders.

WASHINGTON, Nov 6—Surveyor General Hardenburgh of California has sent to the Commissioner of the General Land Office a reply to the charges made against him, in which he makes a vigorous defense and meets the charge regarding fees by saying that he followed the practice of his officers, which has been directly countenanced by the Department. This is shown by its own correspondence with his predecessors, the only difference being that he charged less. As to inaccurate or fraudulent service in the field, he says he was unavoidably deceived by his subordinates. Replying to the charge that he rented part of his office, he asserts that the renting was done by his predecessor, Sherman Day. That the amount altogether collected by him (Hardenburgh) was entirely accounted for to the government, as is shown by files of the Department here. This defense was to-day submitted to the Secretary of the Interior, who will now pass judgment. Although it places a better face on Hardenburgh's prospects, it is still believed that he will be removed and Von Schmidt succeed him.

Hon F F Low, Minister to China, who has been here several days, leaves for New York to-morrow and will proceed to San Francisco in a few weeks on his way to China. PARIS, Nov 5—In the Bazaine trial, Count Palikao, Napoleon's last Minister, testified that he accepted the responsibility ordering the march on Sedan.

Meeting of the National Assembly.

PARIS, Nov 5—The National Assembly met to-day at Versailles. President McMahon sent his message to the Assembly, which was read shortly after the reopening. The message begins with congratulations on the liberation of their territory and maintenance of order, and continues as follows: Europe is assured that we are firmly resolved to preserve peace; therefore without fear sees us resume possession of our territory. The administration has always acted in a conservative spirit, which animates a great majority of the Assembly, from which I never will depart. Agitation of the public mind has redoubled in intensity as the period of your reassembling approached, because it was requisite to discuss things which necessarily involves the question of our form of government. I have neither to intervene in these discussions nor forstall your sovereign decision, but merely to confine the former within legal bounds and provide that the law shall be respected. Your power, therefore, is intact. There is nothing to impede its exercise. Perhaps, however, you may think that in the present situation, with party feeling so strong, the establishment of a definite form of Government presents serious difficulties, and that it would be more prudent to maintain existing instructions. If so, permit me, elected to an honor which I did not seek, to tell you frankly, to thoroughly secure public peace the Government absolutely lacks two things—essential conditions of efficiency. It has neither sufficient vitality nor authority. It can do nothing durable if the rights of the Government are daily questioned, with its powers liable to be changed at any moment. It cannot secure peace nor safety. Great undertakings are impossible. Industry languishes. We are unable to restore that confidence abroad which is necessary to the restoration of the greatness of the nation. The Government lacks authority, for it is unable to repress excesses of journals which are corrupting the public mind. You will consider these dangers and create a strong, durable Executive which can energetically defend society.

A motion made to refer all questions of reform and prolongation of the President's term to a committee was lost.

The Ministry has resigned.

WHAT THE PRESIDENT HOPES FOR CONGRESS TO BUILD HOUSES FOR THE CABINET—THE STATES FOR THE SENATORS.

[Washington Cor Philadelphia Press.]

In conversation the other day the President stated that there were three things he hoped to see at least inaugurated before he retired from office. "In the first place," said he, "I want the government to erect suitable buildings for all of its officers entitled to quarters. We are now paying for rented quarters about $175 000 a year. This money and the interest on it would in a few years make a sum sufficient to pay for the buildings required." The President added that besides, it was due to a great government like ours that it should own the buildings occupied by its officers for the transaction of its business.

He continued: "Another thing I want to see inaugurated before I retire from office is the erection of suitable houses, private residences for the members of the Cabinet. They are expected to entertain a great deal and must live in comparatively good houses. If they have not private houses it requires nearly all their salaries to pay their rent, and they have little to live on." The President's idea is that these houses should not only be built but generally furnished by the Government.

He hopes, too, to see a movement inaugurated by the several States to build residences for their Senators. This of course would be followed by the erection of residences by members of the House of Representatives who have large fortunes and can afford it. These views of the President, although not entirely new, that about the residences for Senators having been agitated several years ago, cannot fail to make a favorable impression, backed as they will be by his influence. It is not improbable that before the expiration of his term the President will call the attention of Congress to this subject in one of his annual messages.

A [illegible] STORY.—A fable overlooked by our friend [illegible]: A flock of wild quails attempted to cross the South Cove at Saybrook Point, but they became exhausted in their flight and dropped into the water. The observing boatmen who frequent that locality picked them up by the dozen, and some were afterwards found in the salt marsh, wet winged, heavy and helpless. [illegible]. This fable teaches that we should not attempt too much, for we may [illegible] at the undertaking.

After considerable knocking, McDermott forced an entrance into the rear and was approaching the front room when Farrell heard him and attempted to escape by the front window. He was, however, confronted by McDonough, who ordered him to halt and not move or he would blow his brains out. He thereupon surrendered, and upon the officer's asking his name he declared it was Harris, the first mate of the Sunrise. He has been in the house where he was captured ever since leaving the vessel, and says the people of the place did not know his name or reputation. The arrest has created the greatest excitement in the city, and the street in front of the county jail is besieged by an immense crowd of people. LETTER FROM OLYMPIA

OLYMPIA, Oct 29 1870

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I reached this place just as the legislative pot was boiling—over what appeared at the time to be the main purpose for which it met: the election of Territorial officers to succeed Messrs Porter and Munson, who (even their opponents concede) have administered the affairs of of the Territory in a manner never approached by their predecessors.

The old Democratic dodge of a caucus had been called for the Saturday evening previous to my return, to which the faithful had been summoned together with the Liberal Republicans. A slate had been made up and everything was lovely—lager flowing freely.

On Sunday morning it was noised abroad that a grave mistake or omission had occurred in the office of Territorial Auditor while John Miller Murphy held that office a few years ago, involving several hundred dollars, and as he had been nominated the night before it was thought the matter ought to be inquired into. A buzz immediately rose; men ran to and fro, "knowledge was increased," but to what purpose will hereafter appear. The Committee on Ways and Means in both House and Council made investigation after their attention had been called to the matter, and elicited the following facts, as I learn from a gentleman on the committee.

In December 1864, warrants had been drawn in favor of the Sisters of Charity, at Vancouver, for caring for the insane of the Territory, aggregating $1,093 70, and a few months later these were paid. Some time in 1866, while Benjamin Harned was Treasurer, this same amount was again entered as paid, a receipt only being presented which described the old warrants. The Auditor's books were then referred to for the purpose of tracing out the matter, when this additional fact was discovered: That no entry had been made in the accounts with the Treasurer after the 17th day of January 1866 for over two years. In the meantime this little sum of money was paid out. This was during the time Murphy was Auditor. A few legislators thought that if the affairs of the Territory were to be conducted after that fashion, in imitation of Tweedism, a reconsideration would have to be made in their caucus nominee; so on Monday, instead of going into joint-convention, there was a desire for a change plainly expressed by a few of Murphy's own party. On Monday evening another caucus was held, and the matter was thoroughly ventilated. But on account of the vote, Murphy was still the candidate, in the face of the admission of several gentlemen who had made personal investigation, that there had been gross negligence and incompetence in his former transactions, to say the very best of it. The few who could not swallow the dose were, by an energetic use of the "party lash," and threats of dire and disastrous consequences, besides a genuine Democratic scathing through the columns of the Standard, thoroughly whipped in (with but a solitary exception). The next day the caucus nominees were duly elected. As you printed them in your Legislative report I will not now mention them. An effort was made by a Republican (Hon T J Favorite, of Whitman and Stevens counties) to have the matter investigated by the Convention, but he was promptly ruled out of order. The majority did not want to hear anything more about rascality. They would leave that to the grand jury.

This action of the Democratic Legislature tells the people of the Territory very plainly that honesty, uprightness and morality cut a very sorry figure in this contest; that they had won the right and were going to divide the spoils as suited them best, evidently realizing that the peculiar combination that brought about their accession to power would not likely occur again very soon. They were going to revenge themselves for being deprived of the "flesh pots" in the past.

After the smoke of action had cleared up, and the party's old time reputation had been fully vindicated, men who helped elect this man were diligent in their efforts to explain away their motives for so doing. "He was the caucus nominee, you know," said a gentleman to me, "and we were in honor bound to support him; besides, every official will cheat and rob, and I am going out of politics anyway." This last remark was so thoroughly suggestive of the argument in behalf of the Albany Hipple-Mitchell bigamy resolution that I was fully convinced. Some men surely have a high appreciation of honor. Some had very important legislation to bring forward, and they would jeopardize it by going against the party—party being of more consequence than a clear conscience and a duty well performed. One legislator said to me it would have been possible to beat the nominee only by a candidate more competent. A few honestly sought to prevent the infamy, but they finally went with the majority. They no doubt thought they had good reasons for so doing.

This contest has left politics in this Territory considerably mixed, [illegible]dly so. Here was an "irregularity" amounting to over $1,000, clearly shown, yet one of the officers who by incompetence at least passed it has been re-elected. That stops the wind in the Democratic organ, unless it hears of some Republican defaulter, and then won't it assume a virtue though it have it not? Of Mr Gunn, of the Transcript, there is no question in regard to his honesty or integrity. He has manfully combatted for the principles of the Republican party. But as he has now received his morsel at the hands of the Democrats, it is not to be supposed that he will expose this little transaction. It is now conceded that he has gone square into the Democratic camp and will sustain that party next year, the election of Murphy and himself being for the purpose of securing newspapers for the next year's campaign. It is whispered that two papers have resolved to say nothing about this matter, and that consequently it will soon die away and be forgotten. This, however, is mere street rumor. No Republican paper, perhaps from interested motives, will touch it either.

The Republican party of the Territory, after twelve years of almost uninterrupted success, is virtually without an organ to-day, and thinking men in the party keenly feel it, but see no present way out of the dilemma but to rely on our neighbors. There is a sort of personal organ in this place, but it does not command confidence and will not receive the party endorsement to any extent. Railroad communication now being about completed, enabling the OREGONIAN to be circulated so promptly, many are beginning to regard it as their hope for the future.

This legislative action, it is now generally believed, has accomplished another result, one predicted from the first. It is now thought the bolting movement has ended; that the bolters, as in the disruption of parties in 1860, will attach themselves to the party which suits them best, and that in the future there will be but two parties, and the great bolt will have passed into history, to be forgotten and unregretted. This looks to me extremely probable, considering that almost every so called Liberal Republican joined with the Democrats at the commencement of the session, and seem in no way inclined to remember that they had any other party associates than the followers of Jeff Davis.

These few items I have picked up since my return. You may be able to judge from them about the outlook for the Republican party in this Territory. The Legislature will soon adjourn and its members return to their several homes. They will no doubt be exceedingly severe on frauds, peculations and incompetency, and explain to their constituents about their action in this matter. We hope they may be able to explain it away, but as at present advised I entertain a doubt. I ought to add that the Republican members voted all through for Republican candidates. Hence they are untainted by this inquity.

The Tacoma Tribune says: "During the last month, the Tacoma sawmill has sold over 200,000 feet of lumber to people in this place, the great bulk of which went to the upper or railroad town site. The Freeport Yard has sold a great quantity also for the same place. Over twenty buildings, small and light, of course, have been constructed there within the last twenty days, and the ratio is still kept up. Four teams are hauling lumber there all the time, and not pretending to do anything else. The railroad depot, offices, and hotel will be done and occupied in three weeks. Both pile drivers are hard at work all the time. A small force is yet engaged on the railroad, and a large force on the town site."

Wm S Barker, Esq, Deputy U S Marshal, went to Marion last Wednesday morning, with the necessary papers, to place in bankruptcy the estate of Oliver Pickard, who lately absconded with a large amount of money. It is thought there are assets sufficient to cover all claims against the estate, with perhaps a small balance left.

There are now forty-eight students enrolled in the Wilbur Academy. This showing will appear the more favorable in connection with the fact that adjacent to this institution a district school is being taught, numbering about thirty five pupils. The winter term of sixteen weeks will commence Nov 24th, at which time a much larger attendance is anticipated.

A Caddo (Indian Ter.) dispatch of Nov 1st says: The Legislature, after a long and exciting session, refused to accept the Government offer of $300 000 for the strip of land known as the "Leased District," upon condition of granting citizenship to 3 000 former negro slaves. THE BULLETIN'S IDEAL.

The repeaters' organ is grieving over Judge Deady's charge to the grand jury of the United States District Court. It thinks His Honor, as a good Republican, "ought to have kept his mouth shut," as a member of the ring expressed it yesterday. And then something is due, you know, to the gang of petty thieves and refugees from the slums who took the risk and afterwards endured the stunning odium of Judge Upton's "charge" to Bruce, the repeater. The bench ought to have some consideration for the self-sacrificing scoundrels whose bribes on the one hand, and whose votes on the other, swelled Hiram Smith's majority in this county, says the Bulletin. A judge who cannot tide his conscience over the little shoals of election day is a Jeffries, and if not a Jeffries, then a Scroggs. This is in perfect harmony with the Bulletinism which the ring has been trying to impose on the people of Oregon for Republicanism. Now, it may wrench the vitals of the Mulkeys, the Wards and the DuBoises when the United [illegible] District Court does not make its love of justice subordinate to partisan feeling. We can imagine for a brief moment how [illegible] they must mourn over the degeneracy of the bench and the bar—how their proud spirits are wounded when the inhibited word "repeater" is uttered in the temple of justice, which should be the home of refuge for convicted partisan rascality. It should be spoken "trippingly," as in the Police Court. Or, if you would quote the Prince of Denmark's invocation to the players, he [illegible] "suit the action to the word, the word to the action"—as in the Police [illegible]. O. N. Denny, is to the Bulletin the beau ideal of the profound jurist and the upright judge. Whether as Paris, [illegible] in judgment, on Ida's height, or as [illegible] on Olympus, he preserves always the [illegible] magisterial dignity. At [illegible] appalling nod the drowsy warden [illegible] to sleep, the dungeon doors of [illegible] jail clang on their hinges. He [illegible] his ambrosial curls so gently when [illegible] repeater pleads guilty, and with such [illegible] acquiescence when in counsel with bribers on the best means of oiling his rigid grasp, that their "pals" may slip [illegible] freedom, away from inquisitive [illegible] juries and perturbed City Attor[illegible]. And then he is so accommodating. [illegible] engaging consideration for the [illegible] of the repeater he waits on bleak [illegible] and counts the constellations [illegible] for apotheosis, while his [illegible] counting out the bail in the luxuri[illegible] [illegible] of the Astor House. [illegible] is so kind and considerate, [illegible] know, and so unlike Jeffries and Scroggs. And then when [illegible] feet go pitapat along the [illegible] at midnight on their errand of [illegible] potent Denny. Carping [illegible] complain that mingled with [illegible] there is too much of the apolo[illegible], but then there you have it the genuine Tread. Grum[illegible] [illegible] ble of indecent haste, but [illegible] shall tell how many pounds [illegible] lifted from the average [illegible], or how many ounce [illegible] lifted from the City Attorney's [illegible] when that sylph-like form stole [illegible] repeater's cell and then stole [illegible] in advance of liberated accoun[illegible]? Or who shall guess how uneasi[illegible] [illegible] and Jeffries turned in their [illegible]

[illegible] is a pen portrait of the Bulletin's [illegible] judge: The ideal must be blind in [illegible] on his party side. He must be [illegible] to the extremes of weather, [illegible] sensualism is to be accommodated. [illegible] be cheek by jowl with the scum [illegible] of the purlieus of vice. [illegible] be complaisant in back-office [illegible] for the relief of "lowly-colored [illegible]" and petty thieves of the Caucasian [illegible]. He must be clay in the hands of the potter, or potter himself, as circum[illegible] require. But he mustn't be a [illegible] or a Jeffries!

WHY IS IT?

The curious will naturally inquire why [illegible] the Bulletin gets so indignant [illegible] a repeater gets into court. When [illegible], the "lowly colored citizen" was [illegible] danger of the penitentiary, [illegible] gobbler's wattles began to [illegible]. They [illegible] to their utmost tension when Bruce was on trial. Just as [illegible] begun to subside, Judge Deady's [illegible] "arched the lithe spine and reared [illegible]" of the small, feline ed[illegible] knows so much about Scroggs [illegible] kind. Now if that polysyl[illegible] gentleman will just tell this com[illegible] why the Judge of the U. S. District Court shouldn't inform the grand jury [illegible] reports charging certain men with [illegible] liquor to Indians are in very general circulation, and instruct them to inquire into these reports, then it may find [illegible] shadow of excuse for its indecent [illegible] on His Honor Judge Deady. We [illegible]; the Bulletin has given a reason for [illegible] [illegible] conduct. It said yesterday [illegible] "this whole matter of repeating had [illegible] inquired into by a grand jury of the [illegible], and it had been demonstrated that [illegible] was no foundation for the charges which were invented by malicious opponents of the Republican party." No foundation, eh? The small, feline and ineffectual looking protuberance must have forgotten that he "lashed the Prosecuting Attorney into convicting Bruce, the repeater." And he must have forgotten that DuBois went on the bail bond of a repeater, who was hustled out of town before the ink on the bond was dry. Has it forgotten that midnight caucus in one of Mitchell & Dolph's back offices, where money was raised for the release of St. John Embleton? Or is it thinking of Denny's lonely vigil on the street corners when he danced attendance on the repeater's employer?

There is another thing he has forgotten, and we may as well remind him of it now. He says Judge Deady uttered an "irresponsible calumny" when he told the Grand Jury that "so late as the last session of the Legislature a distinguished member of that body was reported as saying on the floor of the H[illegible] that elections in Portland were controlled by the purchased votes of a rabble who could be bought at $5 a head." Doesn't the Bulletin remember that Ben Simpson taunted Mr. Caples on the floor of the House with being "elected by a rabble who were bought and sold like sheep for $5 a head?" Consult your files, Mr. Bulletin. The Bulletin says "Judge Deady tries to create an impression through the State (sic—very sic!) that Hiram Smith's majority is the product of corrupt and other unlawful means." Will that paper pretend to deny it. We will wager a five-cent piece against the value of the Bulletin's subscription list that on the poll-books of the various Portland precints there cannot be found the names of one in twenty of the merchants and reliable business men of this city. We know we offer the Bulletin enormous odds, but we know whereof we speak. Besides, it would not be an easy matter to "create an impression through the State." Which reminds us: will the polysyllabic editor tell us the difference between a "responsible calumny" and an "irresponsible calumny."

But we are drifting away from the interrogatory with which we commenced this article. Why is it that the Bulletin assails Judge Deady so spitefully? Is it because he doesn't belong to that class of Judges who believe that a repeater, like Bruce "cannot be degraded or punished by imprisonment in the County Jail" and who, therefore, affix to him the ineffaceable stigma and infamy of a $400 fine? Or is it because it knows that even-handed justice is dispensed in the United States District Court—that the Astrean scales are held in equal poise by the firm hand of the eminent Judge whom it would slander if it could? This intense anxiety for the repeaters means something. It means, perhaps, that "there's something rotten in Denmark," which, if it be stirred, will offend the sensitive nostrils of the Custom House ring.

We want to say, in conclusion, what will be endorsed by every fair and law-abiding citizen. Judge Deady needs no vindication at the hands of any man. The venomous shafts of the Bulletin rattle harmlessly against him, and fall away unnoticed, we presume.

LETTER FROM PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27, 1873.

You cannot realize how thoroughly the great newspapers of these Eastern cities do the work they are engaged in, till you address yourself practically to the task of writing correspondence for some distant journal. The Press, the N. Y. Times, Tribune and Herald, the great papers of Chicago and Washington, and Boston and Springfield, and the lesser but still magnificent journals in all the lesser but still magnificent cities that are scattered throughout the Republic,—these glean every nook and corner of the field, and give the world every item that is worth reading at the earliest possible moment. Grave and gay, lively and severe, great and minute, everything that can afford a morsel of pleasure to any person of any class, or that may be of interest to any part of the great public, is spread before the myriads of readers that constitute this reading nation, almost simultaneously with the happening of the events. In detail and at retail, events upon which the fate of nations may hang, and the conquests of the bright particular stars at the last Jenkins reception, are presented to the eye of the entire Yankee nation. How has journalism developed and expanded since the incoming of the era of telegraphs and railways!

THE CRISIS AND THE NORTHERN PACIFIC.

It is not believed here, nor in New York, that the financial crash in which so many of the great houses have tumbled about the heads of their owners, has destroyed the prospects of the enterprise so vital to the welfare of Oregon, the Northern Pacific Railway. That the Company is much embarassed is, of course, unquestioned. The banking house of Jay Cooke & Co was its main stay and support, and the failure of that house could not but surround the Company with difficulties of a serious nature. Mr. Cooke, taking hold of the enterprise with that energy and zeal which has always characterized his modes of action, took its bonds and advanced money for the work till he could do so no longer. His failure does not involve the loss of a cent to the Company. On the contrary, the Company is largely indebted to him, and this contributed no little to place him in the situation in which he now stands. But his suspension only makes it necessary for the Company to seek some other hands into which its bonds can be placed, and from which it may derive the means of prosecuting its work. Whether this can be accomplished soon is doubtful. There is no banking house in America that can afford the necessary assistance, and Europeans have become suspicious of American railway securities. What with watered stocks from this side the Rocky Mountains, and even more reprehensible practices on the Pacific coast, into which European lenders have been swindled out of their money, the odor of American bonds is not just as sweet to the capitalists of the old world as we could wish it to be. In other words, we can't humbug French and German bankers any longer, and they decline to consider even meritorious offers, through the fear of deception. What then is to be done? The Northern Pacific railway cannot be abandoned. Its completion bears to the prosperity of the great Northwest—on the Pacific slope and in the Upper Mississippi Valley—the relation of a condition precedent. It would open up to settlement and civilization a region of imperial extent and resources, lying directly in the center of the isothermal zone of modern commerce. The road must be finished, but how? I understand it is in contemplation to go to Congress for assistance. Leaning on an already broken staff, apparently, for the current of popular sentiment set so strongly against government aid to railways that Congress will scarcely attempt to stem it. Such is the first thought, but the plan proposed presents the matter in a very different light. It is not the railways that the people oppose, for they need the railways to transport themselves and their products from country to city, from inland to seaboard; but objection is made to any further bestowal of the public lands upon private corporations thus building up landed estates that are a perpetual obstruction to the development of the country. The public lands that yet remain undisposed of, must be reserved for homes for the toiling millions who wait upon the not distant future to give themselves to the promotion of the welfare and prosperity of this great Commonwealth in exchange for the liberty and protection it vouchsafes. The N P Railway Company has a land grant of unparalleled extent and value. Forty millions of acres—enough for a very large State! Suppose this shall be surrendered back by the company, to be opened up to settlement to be given away to the people for homesteads, suppose even half of it be given up. Cannot the Government well afford to loan its credit to the company by securing the interest on its bonds in consideration? Would not this be providing the means for the construction of the people's highway across the continent, and still carrying out the wish of the people in regard to the disposition of the public lands? Assistance rendered upon some such plan as this would not be making further grants to railways—it would be simply so dealing with the company in regard to its vested rights, as to secure the completion of a most important national road at the same time to remove from the former grant its most objectionable feature.

ANOTHER RAILWAY RUMOR.

Apropos of this subject, I have to mention a rumor which may or may not be true, but which is important, if true. I heard at New York that a pool had been formed by our railway king of Portland and some gentlemen of San Francisco and New York, to buy up the bonds of the Oregon and California Railway Company in Europe, and that an agent—Mr Norris—had gone across the Atlantic for that purpose. Here bonds are down, it is said to about 19 cents on the dollar, and it is supposed the road will pay a good return upon the amount all the bonds would cost at this rate. If it is true that the interest due in October was not paid, it is possible that this default has been made purposely, in order to keep the bonds down till the purchase is effected, as there can be scarcely a doubt that the earnings of the road this fall have been ample to pay running expenses and interest. It has done no less than two or three times the business this fall that it ever did before, and its rates, compared with the tariffs of this coast, are absolutely enormous.

I give all this as it comes to me, vouching for nothing, except that which most readers of the OREGONIAN know, namely that the road is doing a business immensely in excess of what it has ever done before.

LESS IMPORTANT.

I see by the OREGONIAN that the Bulletin made some very severe attack upon me about the time I left there, but do not know the nature of it, as the Bulletin of that date could not be found at Washington when I was there. That was in keeping with the character of Scott as exhibited in other ways. A great liar is generally an arrant coward, and this is not the first time the mendacious editor of the Bulletin has furnished evidence that he forms no exception to the rule. The Bulletin had my name among the passenger list of the Steamer the day before she sailed, and knew an attack made then would have to remain unanswered till my return, and till whatever base purpose its editor had in view would be accomplished. Nobody is disappointed, however, at such conduct by such a person. By the way, how is the Bulletin's pea-nut and candy branch of business prospering.

I see the Albany Register supposes I have come here to try to have our bigamous Senator expelled. The Register wholly mistakes me. I came to this coast on a matter of business wholly unconnected with Hipple or his seat in the Senate. If Senators can afford to sit with him it is not for me to object. The people of Oregon have repudiated him and set themselves right before the nation and the Senate, and if the Senate care now to set themselves right before the people they can do so, and if not they can let it alone, just as well without any help of mine as with it. If I had any malice toward the Senator I am sure it ought to be sufficiently gratified by the result of the election. I could ask no more signal triumph for the moral people of Oregon, nor any greater humiliation to Mr. Hipple, if he has any sensibilities left. Let him rest in such peace as he can have under the circumstances. H.

IMMIGRATION.—A Washington dispatch of November 2d, says:

Official returns of the Bureau of Statistics show that during the quarter ending September 30th, there arrived at New York 68,583 emigrants, of whom 38,613 were males and 29,970 females. There died during the voyage forty males and thirty-seven females. In Hot Springs those who are not prosperous express it in this wise: "I'm J Cooked, I'm Tuckered; I'm City Scrapped, I'm Graphicised, I'm jimjammed, bursted, suspended, played out, financially the worst treated and most unfortunate cuss of the can't-pay class in the country."

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

DURING MY ABSENCE FROM PORTLAND, ON account of sickness since the fire of Aug. 2, it was circulated to my prejudice that during my residence in Sacramento, California, and since my residence here that I was guilty of dishonesty in my dealings, by not paying my debts. Whilst engaged in business in Sacramento, next door to Baker & Hamilton, I was burned out twice and flooded once, and as to my honesty in dealings I will refer you to Baker & Hamilton, Gillig, Mott & Co., Matt. Hopkins, Blacks Bros., Mayor Green (present Mayor), Gov. Booth, F. C. Hayden and Mr. Morrill of the Sacramento Union, Jas. MacClatchy of the Bee or any other person engaged in business in Sacramento. In Portland I have been in business nearly three years and refer to Ex-Gov. Gibbs, E. Milwain, Hurgren & Shindler, Jas. Fryer, and any one with whom I have had business connections. I came here with a generous heart and an honest hand, which I still have, although all my worldly effects were lost in the late fire here. C. GILDAY.

FRIDAY MORNING, NOV. 7, 1873.

CITY.

Shooting a Deer.—A lively and exciting episode occurred yesterday while the steamer Emma Hayward was on the way to this city from the Cascades. When about six miles above Vancouver the passengers observed a deer, which was hotly pursued by several hounds leap into the water some distance away, and swim toward the opposite shore. The signal was given, and the wheel of the steamer reversed, thus heading the animal off. It swam alongside the steamer, and appeared to be in greater dread of its pursuers than the boat. Intense excitement prevailed for a moment among the passengers, who crowded to one side to watch the frightened animal. The flurry soon subsided. A quick, sharp report rang through the air, and with one quivering bound the deer had passed in its checks. Looking around in surprise to discover who perpetrated the murderous deed, the passengers perceived the valorous purser of the boat, Mr. Ingalls, just in the act of taking a Spencer rifle from his shoulder. Smoke was issuing from the muzzle of the piece, and so all knew that Ingalls did the cruel deed. We learn that the same gentleman has shot several deer in the same manner. He carries that Spencer rifle expressly to meet such exigencies, and they do say that for a purser he possesses remarkably steady nerves. Only a few years ago Mr. Ingalls figured conspicuously in a lively bear fight, resulting in bruin's complete annihilation.

Salmon Fisheries.—The salmon fishery question has assumed large proportions. Six new fisheries for the canning and packing of salmon are now being erected on the Lower Columbia. Four are in Washington and two in Oregon. All of these new buildings will be large and of increased capacity over those now in use. The first as we go toward the sea, is Hume Bros., immediately below the two old fisheries at Eagle Cliff. The next,—that of Hapgood, formerly of Hapgood & Hume. At Cathlamet, F. M. Warren is enlarging and building a new wharf and "cannery." Below, on the Oregon side, Wesport is improving its proportions. Among other things, Ben. Shinkle is building an elegant yacht,—a little beauty. On the other side, the Manhattan fishery, is doubling its proportions, or more than that, perhaps. A short distance below we find the new buildings of J. W. Cook, of this place, which are now almost entirely enclosed, and present a neat appearance. Passing by the places of Aldrich and then that of Fitzpatrick, on the Island we reach that of Robt. Hume, on the Washington side, erected this year. Below this, on the same side, opposite Woody Island, the Megler Bros. are making ready for a large catch. This place will be on the foot of Jim Crow mountain.

Death of a Sister of Charity.—The Sentinel says: "Again it is our sad duty to chronicle the death of a member of the Sisterhood of the Holy Names, of St. Mary's Academy, in this city. Sister Mary Praxede, after lingering for about two months, the last few days of which being of unparalleled suffering, all borne with the greatest patience and fortitude, yielded her pure spirit to God. Sister Mary Praxede was born in Canada in 1841, entered the religious life in the community of which she was a member at the early age of sixteen years, and came to this coast in 1865. A solemn Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. J. F. Fierens, V. G., at the chapel of St. Mary's Academy, last Monday morning, after which the remains of the deceased Sister were conveyed to the cemetery of the Order, at St. Paul, Marion county.

Being Rebuilt.—At the time of the great fire, last August, a brick building owned by Mrs. Thomas Pearne, near the corner of Yamhill and First streets, fell before the destroyer. Both the brick structures on each side were badly damaged—one being rendered almost a hopeless pile of ruins. These buildings are being rebuilt. Carpenters began yesterday to place down joists preparatory to the masonry work which is to follow, on Mrs. Pearne's building. The ends will have to be rebuilt, and the third story, as the walls of the buildings on either side will answer for the first two stories. This structure is to be of its former dimensions—95x25 feet and three stories. Mrs. P. is now with her husband in San Domingo, and the above mentioned improvements are being superintended by that lady's agent here.

Vigilance H. and L. Co.—This Company is now installed in their new quarters near the corner of Taylor and First streets. The quarters are new being one of the small brick buildings erected since the fire, by Messrs. Johnson & Spaulding, and are quite comfortable and convenient. They are designed, however, to serve only temporarily. When the subject of rebuilding the house occupied by the company previous to the fire was agitated, it was ascertained for the first time that a defect to the title existed of the land on which the building had stood. This important discovery incurred considerable delay in searching the records, quieting the title, etc. Now that the season has so far advanced, it is more than probable that the project of rebuilding will be abandoned until next Spring.

Astoria Harbor Survey.—Mr. H. J. Stevenson, of this city, has completed his survey of that port and indicated the water front. On his chart at one point, we notice the depth of 80 feet. The ruling depths are from 24 to 40 feet, and the channel plain and wide. The bottom is usually mud or sand and alluvium, —in some places rocky. The city should feel proud in having begun and finishing a useful and needed work; showing that progress is the rule there and plenty her possession. The chart was made by Mr. C. B. Talbot, of this city. The city has limited the wharf or dock lides at 22 or 23 feet depths.

En Route for the Penitentiary.—Sheriff A. W. Nye, of Umatilla county, arrived last evening on the Dalles packet, having in custody three Indian prisoners. These prisoners were under sentence from the Circuit Court of that county, and en route for their future place of residence. Two of the Indians were convicted of horse stealing and sentenced to hard labor for one year. The third was convicted of an assault with intent to commit rape, and sentenced for three years. They were "off on the morning train," bound for Hotel de Watkinds.

Bound for Australia.—All will remember the new and handsome schooner Oregonian, which was built some time ago at Coos Bay and made several trips between San Francisco and Portland. This vessel, under command of Capt. Houdlett, is now on the way to Melbourne with a cargo of lumber. More than a month ago the Oregonian sailed from San Francisco for Humboldt Bay where she received her cargo.

Weather Report.—The following is the report from the records of the U. S. Signal Station of Observation, Portland, Oregon, Nov. 6th, 1873.

Bark Sylhet.—The British bark Sylhet is now considerably overdue at Victoria from Liverpool. She sailed some time after the Vesta, for Portland via Victoria with a large assorted cargo. After discharging a portion of her cargo at Victoria the Sylhet will proceed to this port and discharge the remainder of her freight. This bark is consigned to Messrs. Janion & Rhodes.

New Market.—The new building in the upper part of the city intended to be used as a market, is rapidly approaching completion. The brick work was finished some weeks ago and most of the interior wood work is also nearly completed, except the erection of the stalls. This building will probably be ready to rent about the 1st of next month.

Awaiting Charter.—The Norwegian bark Electra is still lying at Astoria. This vessel, we learn is not yet chartered. She came here to await orders, with the intention of carrying away a cargo of grain. Until she is chartered it is likely the Electra will remain where she is now.

Bark Windward.—This bark, under command of Capt. Standard, is now on the way [illegible] from San Francisco. She may be expected to arrive at any time. The Windward [illegible] and will load with lumber at [illegible]

A Remodeled Steamer.—The bark Mariana, which arrived here on Tuesday, was hauled alongside the Gas Company's wharf yesterday morning and began discharging rock ballast. Like many other vessels, a historical interest attaches to the Mariana. As her looks indicate, she is an old vessel, having been built at Mystic, Connecticut, in the year 1860, for the United States Navy. Originally, the Mariana was built as a propeller to carry six broadside guns and a fore and aft pivot gun making eight in all. During the civil war the vessel sailed under the name Kanawha, and participated in several heavy naval engagements, but managed to escape each time without sustaining serious damage. In the year 1866, this craft was sold and taken to Boston. The machinery, propeller, etc., was taken out, name changed and the vessel rigged for a bark. Since then, the Mariana has been engaged in the more profitable but less hazardous and exciting pursuits of commerce. Her dimensions are: Length over all, 175 feet, beam, 27 feet, depth of hold 17 feet. She will load with 650 tons of wheat for San Francisco, being under charter to Morrison, Clay & Co.

Morvin Grove No 2, U. A. O. D.—The installation of officers of the above named Grove for the ensuing term took place last evening, Le F. A. Shaw, D. D. G. A., acting N. G. A., assisted by W. H. Utter, P. A., as D. G. A., M. Ball, P. A., as G. S., G. W. Hillman, P. A., as G. T., A. Campbell, P. A., as G. I. G., and A. J. Marshal, P. A., as G. M., and other P. A.'s, representing the G. G. of the Order. The following are the officers installed: N. A., P. Runey; V. A., R. Norman; R. S., A. G. Walling; Treasurer, W. H. Utter; P. A.; I. G., G. A. Heaton; R. H. B. N. A., E. H. Stolte, P. A.; L. H. B. N. A., D. Rieman, P. A.; Cond., Thos. Huntington. At the conclusion of the installation ceremonies the members of the Grove, officiating officers and invited guests to the number of about fifty repaired to the saloon of Alsky & Heegle, and partook of an excellent collation. Three quarters of an hour was spent in this very agreeable portion of the programme, when the guests dispersed, and the pleasant meeting was at an end.

Protection's New House.—Masonry work on the new engine house for Protection No. 4 was moving rapidly forward until the advent of the late rains, which have occasioned a temporary suspension of operations. Should Jupiter Pluvius withhold for a few days longer his threatened coming, the brickwork will soon be finished. All the castings for the front have been finished, and are raised to their proper positions in the building. When once the building is up and the roof on, the workmen can laugh defiance at the Webfoot dews and mists until the interior of the house is finished. The members of the Company are watching with an uncommon degree of anxiety the progress of operations, and will heartily rejoice, in common with their fellow-firemen, when they are again installed at the old headquarters.

A Chassepot.—During the exciting times of the Franco-German war we could hear of various new and destructive engines of death, which were introduced for the first time by those engaged in that sanguinary struggle. Among others was the Chassepot gun, a favorite with the Frenchman. Mr. Charles Keulin, who has just returned from Europe, brought one of these guns with him. It was picked up on the noted battle field of Sedan. It is a relic well worth preserving, and we presume Mr. Keulin will keep it for the rest of his lifetime. It is to be seen at the Gem Saloon, where those desiring can examine this novel "shooting iron."

Damages Obtained.—On the 12th ult., Mrs. Stone, a resident of East Portland, while walking along the streets of Salem, stepped through a broken portion of sidewalk and broke her ankle. At a late meeting of the Common Council of Salem, the following proceedings were had: "The Committee appointed to investigate the claim of damages incurred by Mrs. Stone, in consequence of defective sidewalk on Chemeketa street, reported recommending that a warrant for $200 be drawn in her favor. Report was adopted after considerable discussion."

Ettie May.—This handsome little craft which was built at Westport last spring for a propeller, but which intention was subsequently abandoned by the proprietors, is now all ready to sail. After giving up the idea of using her as a tug-boat, the owner concluded to rig the Ettie May out as a schooner. For some months she has been lying at one of the points down the river undergoing the required alterations. The Ettie May will probably be placed on the route between this port and Honolulu, although that has not yet been definitely settled.

Schooner Hera.—In relation to the purchase of the schooner Hera, by Jesse Holladay, the Call of a recent date says: The Hera, which arrived from Portland a few days ago, with a cargo of wheat, is to be continued in the trade between this port and Oregon. She is a new three-masted schooner of 750 tons freight capacity. She was recently purchased by Jesse Holladay, who proposes to build three more similar vessels and maintain a regular packet line between this city and Oregon.

Oregon Presbytery.—This Ecclesiastical body, for Oregon and Washington Territory, will convene to-day at the First Presbyterian Church for the transaction of the business of that denomination. Preparatory services were held last evening at the church, the exercises being of a purely devotional character. An excellent discourse was preached by Rev. James Thompson, of Olympia. This evening Rev. E. R. Geary, of Albany, will deliver a discourse.

More Vessels Due.—Some five or six vessels are overdue here—principally from San Francisco. The Astoria packet, which brought the latest advices from below, gave information that no vessels are seen off the bar. Rough, stormy weather has been experienced to seaward, which accounts for the detention. In the next ten days a large number of vessels may be expected to arrive, and render shipping more animated than at present.

True Bill Found.—The Grand Jury returned a true bill yesterday in the case of Dr. C. G. Glass and Charles Mealy, charged with the crime of manslaughter. Both defendants were indicted jointly. On being called in court yesterday morning, and failing to make an appearance, the bail of Glass was ordered forfeited. However, Dr. Glass came into court during the afternoon, and the motion ordering the forfeiture of his bail was set aside.

Foot Hurt.—Mr. Wm. Fletcher, sexton of the Taylor street M. E. Church, met with a serious accident a few days since, having one of his feet severely mashed by a falling bench. He has been under medical treatment and is again able to walk out.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

PERSONAL, LOCAL AND GENERAL, ETC.

[From the P. C. Advocate.]

Rev. Gustavus Hines, who for the past two years has been on the list of our infirm and sick, is still very feeble, and we learn that there is but little, if any, hope of his permanent recovery.

Rev. N. Rounds, D. D., a superannuated member of the Oregon Conference, now a resident of Clarke county, W. T., has been quite ill. We rejoice to learn by a private note that he is now improving.

We have a good report from Rev. H. Caldwell of his work on the Dalles district. At Klickitat the Dalles and Ochoco, most excellent meetings have been held and the general prospects are very good.

PERSONAL.

Mayor McCown of Oregon City, favored us with a call yesterday.

Thomas H. Brents, Esq., of Walla Walla, gave us a call last evening.

Keep Warm.—During the winter months everybody is anxious to avoid the severity of the weather, and various modes are resorted to in carrying out the best means of keeping warm. While BECK & WALDMAN are selling clothing from their immense stock at extremely low prices it would be well to call in and select a winter suit. They keep the best, sell as low as any house and do not propose to be outdone by any other house in the city. They are to be found at the old stand, S. W. corner Washington and Front streets.

The variety of Foreign and Domestic Fruits to be seen at W. ASCHENHEIM'S, 120 First Street, is immense for this time of the year. Go and see it.

Clothe Yourself.—Now is the time to make a purchase of winter clothing. If you have not done so make it a point to consult J. KOHN & CO., who are able to show you the finest assortment of goods ever displayed in this city. They have the largest store and are thus enabled to lay in an immense stock. There is no denying the fact. You need not hesitate about prices as they have put the figures down to allow but a small margin to themselves. The place is opposite the National Bank.

Don't go home to-night without having previously made arrangements with John O'Neil & Co. to do up a fall suit in their own peculiar style, which is quite popular as the elegant suits daily seen on the streets from this house will attest. Mr. Scharf of the firm has been to San Francisco. That is sufficient. Be sure to call and select from the latest arrivals which are new and novel. The place is 93 First street.

WHY WAS IT DEFEATED?

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

Believing the press to be a public benefactor and an instrument upon which the public may play, I will, with your consent, use it but for a moment, just long enough to introduce one gentle symphony, arranged in two sharps, for the benefit of two City Fathers, who by their opposing votes in the Council, Wednesday evening, defeated one of the worthiest and most humane ordinances ever brought before that body.

During the past two years in this city, the attention of our citizens having been called to the frequent and criminal acts of cruelty inflicted upon that subservient and indispensable servant of man, the horse, together with daily scenes of inhuman cruelty to other animals, it became necessary and imperative that decisive and active measures be speedily adopted to check this growing evil. Therefore, a few weeks since, a Society for this purpose was duly incorporated, and is known as the Oregon Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, under the management and care of the following named gentlemen: B. Goldsmith, Philip Wasserman, W. S. Ladd, Henry Failing, James Steel, Dr. J. A. Chapman, L. M. Parrish, Gen. Babbitt, Dr. Pilkington, Wm. Wadhams, Dr. Strong, J. R. Cardwell and W. T. Shanahan. Officers were elected and a committee appointed to prepare an ordinance to meet the demands of this city, the general law of this State being inadequate to protect the working of a society of this character. Therefore, a carefully prepared ordinance was presented and submitted to the action of the Council on Wednesday evening, and by two dissenting votes consigned to the department of the lost. Could this fact be communicated to the poor lacerated, gallied, goaded, skeletons, wrapt up in horse hide, here in this city, they would send forth a groan that would make Rome howl. And if there is a horse heaven I sincerely hope that when the spirits of those poor rack-a-bones take their flight and get well rested, they will then make nocturnal visits to this earth for the purpose of pursuing such men as quote:

> "A man of kindness to his beasts is kind,
> But brutal actions show a brutal mind."

and then go straight into the Council and vote against an ordinance for the prevention of cruelty to animals. This reminds me very forcibly of the old Scotchman, who sung most piously the hymn,

> "Were the whole realm of nature mine,
> That were a present far too small."

and all through the singing was fumbling in his pockets to make sure of the smallest piece of silver for the contribution box.

Mr. Editor, thanking you for the use of your instrument, for the present, not knowing how soon I may be called upon to play another symphony in, perhaps, more than two sharps,

I remain yours truly,
HUMANITARIAN.

MARY AND I.

"Twas evening in May, and the soft zephyr sighed
Through branches low bending above
My Mary and I, as we wandered along,
And whisper'd of beauty and love.
"We'll make us a nest like the birdlings," I said,
"And never shall part any more."
"Oh yes," she replied, "and can furnish it nice,
AT HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE."

"Fair creature, there's many a wealthier man
Would gladly have you for a bride,
But no one can love you more fondly than I—
My treasure, my beauty, and pride!
Oh, had I a mansion with carpets of gold
And silver, I'd cover the floor!"
But, smiling, she said, "You can purchase the best
AT HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE.

"I'll spread you a couch upon which to recline
When evening shall call us to rest
Of the fleeciest down — but," she said with a sigh,
"I like a hair mattress the best."
"Then so it shall be, love, and tables inlaid,
And seats from some far distant shore."
"Oh no," she exclaimed, "They have elegant sets
AT HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE."

"But Mary, alas! I must sadly confess
My means are but slender as yet,
To furnish a house in the style you demand
Would hopelessly plunge me in debt—
To ask you to share my poor lodgings and board
Is something that I should deplore."
She said with a smile, "You can buy very cheap
AT HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE."

"To morrow, then, love, let us journey along
To the corner of Alder and Front street—
'Tis numbers 98 and 100, (river side,)
Where lovers so happily meet,
How many fond souls might be severed for years
From those they so fondly adore,
Were it not for the beautiful furniture they have,
AT HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE."

They have marble top bureaus and elegant sets
Of Bedroom furniture now,
With center tables and what not, and mirrors great
And an endless variety of chairs, not a few.
They do a cash business, and with money in hand
To purchase every style of furniture lower,
Are able to supply all the public demand
AT HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE.

We went, Mary and I, and can I ever forget
The pleasure that beamed in her face
As she gazed at the marvels of beauty displayed
In HURGREN & SHINDLER'S place?
We furnished our home in an elegant style,
Been married a twelve month or more,
And Mary is singing this song to her babe,
OF HURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE.

FRIDAY MORNING NOV 7, 1873

ADIPOSE TRIUMPHANT

A TALE OF ENGLISH MAIL COACH DAYS.

[From the Atlantic Monthly for November.]

An English gentleman of the true John Bull proportions—weighing some eighteen or twenty stone—had occasion to travel one summer by stage-coach from Oxford to London. The stage carried six inside, and he had engaged two places (as in consideration of his size he usually did) for himself. The other four seats were taken by Oxford students.

These youths being lighter than our modern Lambert, reached the stage before he did, and each snugly possessed himself of a corner seat, leaving a center seat on each side vacant. The round good-tempered face of John Bull soon after appeared at the carriage door, and peering into the vehicle and observing the local arrangements its owner said with a smile, "You see I am of a pretty comfortable size, gentlemen, so I have taken two seats. It will greatly oblige me if one of you will kindly move into the opposite seat so I may be able to enter."

"My good sir," said a pert young law student, "possession is nine-tenths of the law. You engaged two seats. There they are, one on each side. We engaged one each, came first, entered regularly into possession, and our titles to the seats we occupy are indisputable."

"I do not dispute your titles," said the other, "but I trust to your politeness, seeing how the case stands, to enable me to pursue my journey."

"Oh, hang politeness," said a hopeful young scion of some noble house. "I have a horror of a middle seat, and would not take one to oblige my grandmother. It's ungraceful as well as uncomfortable, and besides one has no chance of looking at the pretty girls along the road. Good old gentleman, arrange your concerns as you please. I stick to my corner." And he [illegible] yawned, and settled himself with hopeless composure in his place.

Our corpulent friend, though a man not easily discomposed, was somewhat put out by his unmannerly obstinacy. He turned to a smart-looking youth with a simper on his face—a clerical student who had sat in a revery, [illegible] thinking over his chances of a rich [illegible] in the future. "Will you accommodate me?" he asked, "this is the last stage that starts for London to-day, and business of urgent importance calls me to town."

"Some temporal affair, no doubt," said the [illegible] youth with mock gravity, "some [illegible] with filthy lucre for its object. Good [illegible], at your age your thoughts should turn heavenward, instead of being confined to the dull heavy tabernacle of clay that chains us to earth." And his companions roared with [illegible] at the "d——d clever joke."

A glow of indignation just colored the stranger's face, but he mastered his feelings in a [illegible] and said with much composure to the [illegible], "Are you also determined that I shall lose my place, or will you oblige me by taking a center seat?"

"Ay, do, Tom," said his lordship to the person [illegible], "be a something in the way of your pro[illegible], quite a physiological curiosity. You ought to accommodate him."

"May I be poisoned if I do," replied the student. [illegible] In a dissecting room he'd be an excellent subject, but in a coach and this warm weather, too! Old gentleman, if you'll put yourself under my care I'll engage in the course of six weeks, by a judicious course of [illegible], to save you hereafter the expense [illegible]. But, really, to take a middle seat in the month of July is contrary to all the [illegible], and a practice to which I have a [illegible] national objection."

And the laugh was renewed at the old gentleman's expense.

By this time the patience of coachee, who had [illegible] to the latter part of the dialogue, [illegible] "Hackee, gemmen," said he, "settle it as you like, but it wants just [illegible] of a minute of twelve, and with the first [illegible] of the university clock my horses [illegible] off. I would not wait three seconds [illegible] the king, God bless him. 'Twould be as much as my place is worth." And with [illegible] his box, took up the reins, [illegible] shut the door, and sat with uplifted [illegible] waiting for the expected stroke. As it sounded from the venerable belfry, the [illegible] as if they recognized the signal, shot off [illegible] the four young rogues, to [illegible] own rudeness and our fat friend's [illegible] a prolific theme for merriment [illegible] the whole stage.

[illegible] while the object of their mirth hired a [illegible] followed, and overtook them at the [illegible] of horses, where the passengers [illegible] minutes for lunch. As the postchaise [illegible] up to the inn door, two young [illegible] passed with their bags and [illegible] their well-known cry [illegible] "Father, my lads," said the corpulent [illegible], "what say you to a ride?" [illegible] of their eyes enlarged into still [illegible] striking contrast with the dark shades of [illegible] cheeks. "Will you have a ride my [illegible] in the stage coach?"

"Yes, sir," said the elder, scarcely daring to [illegible] by the evidence of his ears.

"Well, then, hostler open the stage-door. In [illegible] you! And, d'ye hear? be sure to take the two middle seats, so, one on each side."

The guard's horn sounded and coachee's [illegible] was heard. "Only one minute and a half [illegible], gentlemen; come on!"

[illegible], bowed laughingly to our friend of the corporation, and passed on to the coach. The young lord was the first to put his foot on the steps. "Why, how now coachee? What confounded joke is this? Get out you young [illegible] or I'll teach you how to play [illegible] such a trick again."

"Sit still, my lads; you're entitled to your [illegible]. My lord, the two middle seats through your action and that of your young friends are mine; they were regularly taken and duly paid for. [illegible] choose that two proteges of mine [illegible] occupy them. An English stage-coach is free to every one who behaves quietly, and I am answerable for their good conduct, so mind you behave, boys! Your lordship has a horror of a middle seat; pray take the corner one."

"Overreached us by Jove!" said the law student. [illegible] "We give up the cause, and cry you [illegible], Mr Bull?"

"Blythe is my name."

"We cry quits, worthy Mr Blythe."

"You forget that possession is nine-tenths of the law, my good sir, and that the title of these lads to their seats is indisputable. I have installed them as my locum tenentes, if that be good law Latin. It would be highly unjust to [illegible] the poor youths and I cannot permit it. You have your corner."

"Heaven preserve us!" exclaimed the medical student.

"You are surely not afraid of a black coat," retorted the other. "Besides we ought not to suffer our thoughts to dwell on petty earthly concerns, but to turn them heavenward."

"I'd rather go through my examination a second time than to sit by these dirty devils," groaned the medical student.

"Soot is perfectly wholesome, my young friend, and you will not be compelled to violate a single hygienic rule. The corner you selected is vacant. Pray get in."

At these words coachee, who had stood grinning behind, actually cheated into forgetfulness of time by the excellence of the joke, came forward. "Gentlemen, you have lost me a minute and a quarter already. I must drive on without ye, if so be ye don't like your company."

The students cast rueful glances at each other, and then crept warily into their respective corners. As the hostler shut the door he found it impossible to control his features. "I'll give you something to change your cheer, you grinning rascal!" said the [illegible] Esculapius, stretching out of the window, but the hostler nimbly evaded the blow.

"My white pantaloons!" cried the lord.

"My beautiful drab surtout!" exclaimed the lawyer-expectant. "The filthy rascals!"

The noise of the carriage wheels and the unrestrained laughter of the spectators drowned the sequel of their lamentations.

At the next stage a bargain was struck. The sweeps were liberated and dismissed with a gratuity, the seats shaken and brushed, the worthy sons of the university made up among themselves the expenses of the postchaise, the young doctor violated for once the rules of hygiene by taking a middle seat, and all journeyed on together without further quarrel or grumbling, except from coachee, who declared that "to be kept over time a minute and a quarter at one stage and only three seconds less than three minutes at the next was enough to try the patience of a saint, that it was."

New Hampshire has now at its Capitol portraits of all its Governors since 1700 with a single exception, and the portrait of General Henry Dearborn, soon to be added, will make the collection of its Revolutionary Generals entire.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

THURSDAY EVENING November 6 1873.

Gold in New York to-day 108¼@108⅜.

Portland Legal Tender rates 90½ buying 91½ selling.

Gold bars are quotable at [illegible].

Exchange on San Francisco ¾ of 1 ℔ cent discount.

Liverpool Wheat [illegible] club [illegible].

[illegible] The recent [illegible] purchases of wheat has received [illegible] from the [illegible] supply [illegible] probably [illegible] during the season at [illegible] weeks [illegible] in our State [illegible] help from the outside. Buyers [illegible] tendered their resources and [illegible] have [illegible] the business of the season without [illegible] the market [illegible] during the last [illegible] hundreds of thousands of dollars to our State, which is in part is so much added permanently to the wealth of the country. During the present season [illegible] Portland have [illegible] about $1,500,000 [illegible] will expect a return in the way of profits in a measure [illegible] with this large outlay.

At this writing our local finances are working smoothly and no serious apprehensions are felt that the supply of capital during the winter months will be adequate to the ordinary demands of trade. Loanable funds can be found on the market now with much greater ease than six months ago, though now as ever there can be found those who claim that the present is the most stringent period, or that such period is just at hand. Such croakers are never true indicators of the financial barometer.

The attempt very recently made to bring silver coin into circulation in the Eastern States is yet in the experimental stage, and the indications so far do not foretoken its complete success. The coin is bought up at a premium as fast as it is paid out by those who intend to lock it up. The principal use of silver is the accommodation of the retail trade of the country with small change. The fractional currency now supplies this want. It has been suggested that if the Government really wishes to introduce silver coin as a circulating medium it should retire this fractional currency, of which there is some $40,000,000 out, and the vacuum thus created would compel the use of silver.

It is a pity that some means cannot be devised to check the practice of gambling in gold coin at New York. Under the suspension of specie payments the commercial wants of the country for gold are comparatively small. The principal demand is for the payment of duties, which absorbs from $17[illegible],000,000 to $200,000,000 per annum. All other legitimate wants probably do not exceed $50,000,000. Yet it is notorious that the gold sales at New York amount to several hundred millions per annum. Of course a great part of the business is purely speculative, and hence the premium is raised or depressed to the detriment of general business, so that a few gold operators may be enriched. The system is pernicious in all its phases and should be suppressed or modified.

The gold coined at the San Francisco Branch Mint for the month of October this year amounted to $2,303,825 18. The [illegible] received by transfer was $1,200,000. The coinage since January 1st 1873 already exceeds that of the whole of last year, which was $19,[illegible] 40, and it will without doubt reach $30,000,000 for the calendar year.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The large number of grain carrying vessels arriving during the week specially under review, and the probabilities of further arrivals at an early day, has given the market renewed activity and an upward tendency. The supply in store here is being rapidly placed aboard ships, and buyers are beginning to make more inquiry for large lots. Transactions as yet however are unimportant, a considerable difference seeming to exist between holders and purchasers in regard to rates. The quotations furnished are $1 90 ℔ cental, with all chances for an advance in favor of the seller for large lots.

FLOUR—We note no very large supplies on hand, the export demand consuming the product of our State mills, except barely enough to satisfy the requirements of the home trade. Agents here are holding firmer at $6 ℔ bbl for standard brands of extras, $5@5 50 for good to best country, and outside brands, $4@4 50 for fine and superfine.

OATS—The aggregate receipts so far during the season have been less than would be expected, considering the very large surplus in the country. There is quite an active demand here for the local trade and a fair call for shipping purposes. We quote at 4[illegible] ℔ bushel for inferior to good lots.

BARLEY—The demand is quite steady at $1 40@1 45 ℔ 100 to supply home wants, while shipments are more spasmodic according to the supply or lack of means of transportation.

FEED—We quote Bran from agents' hands at $1[illegible] ℔ ton. Chopped Middlings etc $27 50@30. Shorts $23@25. The demand is active and the supply limited.

HAY—The receipts are not more than adequate to the present local demand, and prices are inclined to advance. We quote choice baled timothy at $15@$17 ℔ ton, loose do $11@12.

POTATOES—The very large yield of this vegetable the present season renders it probable that low prices will be the rule throughout the year, but this prospect may be changed after the first hard freeze, if such shall come. At present our market is well supplied at varying prices ranging from [illegible] cents ℔ bushel.

ONIONS—The supply in our market is hardly so large as last week, but quotations remain without important change at 1½@2 cents ℔ ℔.

APPLES—The very large receipts heretofore noticed continue, with an increase in the variety. Quotations vary as to quality and style of packing, ranging from 20 to [illegible] cents ℔ box, the latter figures including boxes and choice varieties for shipping.

BACON—The importations of Eastern and California hams to this market continue to reflect damagingly upon the prudence of the Oregon producer. Good Oregon cured hams and shoulders have been much inquired for of late at current rates. Sides are in better supply.

LARD—From Oregon factories is in demand at 11 to 12 cents ℔ ℔ in kegs and [illegible] cents in tins.

BUTTER—The supply of choice is short and quotations have an upward tendency, which has been well sustained during the week. We quote best for family use at 30c to 35c ℔ ℔ [illegible] in rolls [illegible] to 30c; in kegs 18c to 20c, and so on according to quality.

CHEESE—Are still liberally supplied both from State dairies and by importations. The former commands 16c to 17c ℔ ℔.

EGGS—The scarcity heretofore noted continues unrelieved, and though buyers claim that shipments cannot be made with any hope of margins, the local demand consumes all offering. We quote our market firm at 45 cents ℔ dozen.

POULTRY—The supply of most kinds is adequate and we notice quite a fair local demand. Chickens are quotable at $3@3 25 ℔ dozen, turkeys $1@2 20, ducks $[illegible]@3 50, geese, $9@1[illegible].

BEEF CATTLE—Butchers and packers are actively engaged, and prices, though without material advance, are quite firm. We quote at [illegible] cents per pound on foot for common lots.

MUTTON SHEEP—The demand is dull and prices nominal $[illegible] ℔ head.

DRESSED HOGS—There is considerable activity in the market and receipts are increasing as the season for packing approaches. Quotations are furnished at 6@7c ℔ ℔.

HIDES—Each [illegible] steamer carries away large numbers and buyers freely take all offering, paying for undamaged lots of green [illegible]; green salted 7@8c; salted dry [illegible]; Culls are selling at 1[illegible] ℔ ℔.

WOOL—Eastern advices [illegible] are not as favorable as [illegible] slightly affected our market, though receipts from [illegible] small. We [illegible] shipments while [illegible] our State factories still purchase small lots, paying 18c [illegible] for common and [illegible] to 25c for [illegible] lots.
